'PHONE, GRAIN RATES TO BE INVESTIGATED

State Railroad Commission Orders General Probes Undertaken

TO HOLD HEARINGS

Grain Rates to Grand Forks Mill Also Will Be Investigated

General investigations into the telephone rates of the principal companies in North Dakota and into railroad grain freight rates in intrastate shipments will be conducted by the state railroad commission, it was announced today by Chairman Frank Milhollan.

The probe into telephone rates of the Northwestern Bell and the North Dakota Independent Telephone Co., controlling most of the principal exchanges and toll lines, will culminate in a general hearing, probably in July.

H. Morris, chief engineer of the commission, and accountants, have gone to Omaha, Neb. to ascertain facts from records of the Bell company.

The rates now in effect, Mr. Milhollan said, are rates approved by the federal court and are an increase over rates approved by the commission. The purpose of the investigation is to review operating expenses and revenues since the court decision and probably to fix new rates.

Notice have been served on railroads operating in the state that an investigation into the intrastate grain rate shipments and also the rates from all points in the state to Grand Forks, where the mill and elevator is located, will be held. This probably will be in the latter part of July.

The hearing will be with a view of ordering any adjustments in rates found desirable and reasonable.

DAIRY TOUR IS ENDORSED

State Department of Agriculture to Aid

The state department of agriculture has been requested by Governor Nestos to cooperate in securing attendance of farmers at the dairy demonstrations to be conducted on the Northern Pacific special dairy train which will travel through Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana, making stops for exhibition purposes at Valley City, Jamestown, Mandan and Dickinson, and probably at Bismarck for a Sunday rest.

The project was endorsed by the Governor, and Secretary Cox is arranging for cooperation from all agencies with which the Governor's office is in touch, the Governor regarding it as a big effort to develop the rapidly growing dairy industry of the state.

70 RESCUED FROM U. S. SHIP

Mine-Sweeper Goes on Rocks; Is Total Loss

Seattle, Wash., June 8.—Rescue of 70 men from the mine-sweeper Cardinal of the U. S. Navy clinging to the shaggy rocks of the Chiraf Island in the Pacific Ocean 10 miles south of the Alaskan peninsula was attempted at daybreak today. The Cardinal was given up for a total loss. The oil tanker Symma of the navy and the exploration steamer Discoverer of the coast and geodetic were standing by.

The Discoverer, which arrived soon after the Cardinal hit yesterday, struck the rocks herself in attempting a rescue. The Cardinal had gone north to join a fleet of submarines which are to tour Alaskan waters and was 150 miles from her companions.

Bond Payments Made Schools

The state board of university and school lands, obtaining funds from the retirement of state bonds before maturity by State Treasurer Steen, has paid $55,000 to Oakes special school district No. 33 for bonds purchased.

The payment will aid in settling a difficulty arising in Oakes where a school was built on the promise of funds being forthcoming, and funds did not become available. The board also paid $2,000 to Ziner district No. 4, Dunn county, and Alderman district No. 78, Barnes county, on bond issues.

Though one horsepower is supposed to represent the power of an average horse, it is an overestimate, a 10-h. p. engine really representing the equivalent strength of only 62-3 average horses.

WHEAT CONFAB IN CHICAGO JUNE 19-20

P. R. Fields of International Receives Copy of Call For Fair Price Conference

"A fair price for the wheat crop" is the goal of the National Wheat Conference to be held at Chicago, June 19 and 20 next. It is hoped that the outgrowth of this conference will be a great national campaign to stimulate American consumption of wheat and its accompanying farm products.

It is to be a public conference, held at the call of a committee including the governors of seven of the principal grain states, one United States senator and one senator-elect, and the heads of the three great farm organizations.

A copy of the call for the conference has been received by P. R. Fields, Branch Manager of the International Harvester Company of America in Bismarck.

The problem which the National Wheat Conference hopes to solve, said Mr. Fields, "vitality affects every person living in the United States. As the committee calling the conference of our men, women and children are directly interested in the production of wheat. Indirectly every one of us Americans has a similar and important interest in the wheat crop and the price it brings.

"It is pointed out by the conference call committee that the price of wheat, measured by the cost of production or by the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar, is lower now than in the last fifty years.

"As a matter of fact, agriculture is as far out of line with other industries that the entire market price of an average bushel of wheat will pay a Chicago bricklayer's wage for only a day and a half.

"Quoting the call, a fair price for the wheat crop means purchasing power to the farmer, smoking chimney for American factories and a full dinner pail for American worker.

"The men who have called this conference are convinced that America cannot sell her surplus wheat crop in the open markets of the world at a profitable price. The purpose of this gathering is to adopt ways and means to provide a profitable outlet in our own country for the surplus wheat by stimulating consumption of wheat and its accompanying farm products.

"The character and aims of this conference are amply guaranteed by the names of the men signing the call. They are, Governors Preuss of Minnesota, Small of Illinois, Davis of Kansas, Hyde of Missouri, Nestos of North Dakota, Donahay of Ohio, and Walton of Oklahoma. United States Senator Capper of Kansas, United States Senator-Elect Copeland of New York, President Burr of the National Farmers' Union, President Bradford of the American Farm Bureau Federation, J. Lowell, Master National Grange, George E. Chamberlain of the United States Shipping Board, and Aaron Sapich, Counsel in Agricultural Economics.

"The conference is to be wide open to the public. If there is any citizen of this community who would like to attend, I am authorized to say that if he will write or telegraph to Governor J. A. Preuss, Room 130, State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota, he will receive a personal invitation.

"This will be a conference of the most intense interest, and it is hoped that its results will have much to do with our individual and national prosperity in the future."

RISK DECISION IS MODIFIED

The supreme court has modified and amended to the district court of Hettinger county, the case of Mrs. Frank L. Gotchy, against the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, appealed by the latter. Gotchy died after, it was claimed, he suffered injuries from being struck on the head by a pulley while working for the Reeder Cooperative Equity Exchange. The bureau held it was not shown that an accident while in the employ of the company caused his death, and other defects in the application, and denied liability.

NEW CRASH ON CURB MARKET CAUSES STIR

District Attorney Rushes Assistant to House to Seize The Records

New York, June 8.—District Attorney Banton, who is investigating charges of bucketing against several bankrupt brokerage houses, today called on the police to aid him in tracing records of the curb market house of L. L. Winkelman and Co., which disappeared a few minutes after an involuntary bankruptcy petition had been filed. Mr. Banton rushed Assistant District Attorney Gibbs to the Winkelman house as soon as the crash had been reported. Mr. Gibbs said he was informed that several large packages, presumably records of the company, had been taken away from the office.

The failure of the Winkelman firm, the largest on the New York curb market, intensified Mr. Banton's campaign against brokerage houses alleged to have been operated in a questionable manner. U. S. District Attorney Haywood also has made an investigation, alleging conspiracy to defraud investors.

Liability in petitions for involuntary bankruptcy were alleged at $1,750,000 and the assets of $1,500,000.

SCHNEIDER'S CASE DELAYED

CALLED HOME BY FATHER'S DEATH, AND FINDS FATHER VERY MUCH ALIVE

For the second time a young man has been called to his home on the "north line" out of Mandan by report that his father was dead, and on arriving found the report a hoax. Take "Bart" Kruse, pugilist, was called from Billings, Montana, to Hazen, being informed his father was dead, and on arriving in Mandan, telephoned to his home and found his father very much alive.

Kruse received a telegram in Billings, Montana, from his Manager, Eddie Doherty, in Sweet Grass, Montana, with the information. Doherty had received a telegram that Kruse's father was dead. Kruse has not yet obtained details from Doherty.

Last year a youth was called home by a telegram announcing that his father was dead, but found the report untrue. He entered suit against the telegram company and was awarded $100 damages. The name of the sender was never learned.

FRENCH PRESS SHY AT GERMAN DEBT PROPOSAL

Premier Poincare Is Reported To Have Called Proposition "Ridiculous"

WANT RUHR EXPENSES

Germans Feel That Much Progress Has Been Made Toward a Settlement

Paris, June 8.—Premier Poincare, upon reading the German reparations note is reported to have called it "ridiculous". The newspapers with exception of extremist organs, take same attitude. The six leading papers of Paris apply to the memoranda such epithets as "inadmissible" and "unacceptable" and "not needing a reply."

Le Matin finds that the note has the appearance of a challenge, so greatly does it fail to recognize the political situation. The anti-ministerial L'Ouverture says the propositions are objectionable in many ways, especially the suggestion for a moratorium of four years in which France would receive nothing, not even the expense of the Ruhr occupation.

The newspapers devote themselves to a discussion of whether anything more than a formal acknowledgment of the memorandum received would be sent to France and Belgium. Whether a joint allied reply will be dispatched or whether the allies will discuss the question in supreme council.

LONDON'S VIEWS

London, June 8.—The new German reparations note has created a generally favorable impression in the London newspapers, most of which regard it as a distinct advance over any previous proposal.

The suggestion of a conference at which Germany would be represented by a committee of the approval of a majority of commentators.

Considerable doubt is expressed as to whether France can be brought into line with the other allies. Some of the editorial writers believed that she will reject the new proposal as flatly as she rejected the last.

THINK PROGRESS MADE

Rome, June 8.—The newspaper Messaggero says that the new proposals of Chancellor Cuno are still far from realizing that it is necessary for a possible understanding with the allies, even taking as a basis their most moderate claims as set forth in the memorandum Premier Mussolini presented at London. The only noticeable improvement, continues the paper, is that in the new note Germany no longer asks for evacuation of the Ruhr.

NOT SATISFACTORY

Berlin, June 8.—Reichstag leaders believe the note delivered at the allied capitals yesterday marked an advance over the German government's previous reparations communications especially since it more firmly stresses the Right's good-will and readiness to arrive at the solution of the problem and also because the subject of guarantees is given in concrete form.

Despite this parliamentary circles are not displaying an excessive optimism concerning the reception of the memorandum by the creditor powers. In these quarters it is believed that France will continue to block any attempt by England to create a favorable atmosphere for early negotiations by seeking to influence Belgium and Italy.

MOTORMAN HELD AFTER LEAVING CAR WHICH DASHES DOWN HILL, STRIKES BUILDING, KILLS GIRL

New York, June 8.—Patrick McNelis, a motorman, was held for homicide today charged with having dived his car last night when the power failed and it plunged eight blocks down one of the steepest hills in the city, killed a young girl, seriously injured four other persons and made homeless 10 families who lived in a brick tenement partially demolished by the crash.

Just as it reached the top of a long hill near Columbia university the power failed. The motorman, according to his report to the police, applied the brakes but the vehicle started backward down the hill, rapidly gathering momentum. The motorman jumped and a male passenger followed him, leaving three girls and a woman in the car. The trolley, going 30 miles an hour, struck an open switch at the foot of the hill, fell along the street and at a curve smashed away the front of the brick-faced tenement and was finally crushed beneath the falling debris.

Mary McLaughlin, 17, was going toward the candy shop in the basement when she saw the wild car rushing toward her. As the car tore into the building she was crushed by falling brick and thrown beneath the wheels.

ALL OFFICERS MUST ENFORCE POOL HALL ACT

Attorney-General Calls Upon Local Officials to Aid Department

PROBE LICENSES

Weeding Out Process at Start Is Proposed Under New Policy

Local officers in the state are to be asked to "O. E." persons applying for state licenses to operate poolrooms and dance halls.

Attorney-General George F. Shafer, announcing a new policy of "weeding out" undesirable before licenses are granted, has addressed a letter to all mayors, sheriffs, chiefs of police and all peace officers in the state explaining the plan.

All licenses issued by the state licensing department expire June 30, and new licenses are to be issued from July 1. The state licensing law provides that the Attorney-General "shall" examine the "fitness" and suitability of the place and person desired to be "licensed" and that he shall refuse a license "to any person or place where it appears that the applicant is an improper person to be so licensed."

"Heretofore it has been the custom of this Department to grant such licenses as a matter of course, upon the filing of the proper application, without examination into the qualifications of each applicant, or making other investigation," says the letter of the Attorney-General. "I propose to exercise greater care in the matter of granting licenses by this department, particularly in the case of applicants for pool hall and dance hall licenses.

Duty of Officers

"It is not possible, however, with the limited staff of this department, to investigate each of the several thousand applications, which are annually filed in this office, and so I must depend considerably upon the assistance and cooperation of the State's Attorneys and police officers of the state in administering the law as the legislature intended it should be administered."

Quoting the 1923 law which made all officers responsible for enforcement of the state license law Mr. Shafer said to the officers "you will, therefore, see that you are vested with the same powers and duties to enforce this Act as rest upon the officers of this department."

Asks G. O. K.

Mr. Shafer stated to the officers that "I am, therefore, going to advise you, from time to time of the names of persons who apply for licenses to operate pool halls and dance halls or pavilions, under this law, in your jurisdiction, and will ask you to give me your advice and recommendation with respect to each application. Whenever you advise, either that the application should be refused, or recommend a special investigation, I will cause the issuance of the license to be held up until an investigation is made and a hearing had thereon."

OFFICERS OF COMPANY WILL PRESENT CASE

Valuation of New Plant and City's Offer Expected to Be Discussed

GOING OVER FIGURES

Engineer For Water Company Takes Up Figures As To Plant Valuation

Members of the city commission, citizens' committee and the officials of the Bismarck Water Supply Company will talk over the water works situation in the same room tonight.

Judge George P. Flannery of St. Paul, executor of the Alexander McKenzie estate, who is also president of the Northwestern Trust Company of St. Paul, and administrator of the James J. Hill estate today asked the city commission for a meeting at which the problem might be gone over. Judge Flannery and Theresa Butler, Jr. came here yesterday.

Judge Flannery said this morning that Superintendent Kelsey of the St. Paul Water Company, who has been called previously by the water company in the rate investigation and Mr. Butler, and himself were going over the various figures as to the valuation of the plant today, and wished to meet the city commission to talk over the matter.

Asked concerning possible legal action by the water company to restrain the city from the sale of bonds and warrants, or from proceeding with the building of a new plant, Mr. Flannery said that "I hope to avoid litigation. That has always been my attitude."

The city commission last Monday decided upon an offer of $250,000 for the present plant of the company and dispatched it to the water company asking for a reply by June 11 when bids will be received for the sale of warrants and bonds. The commission wanted a quick extension until June 12 by some contractors because of the negotiations with the Bismarck Water Supply Company. The whole matter with respect to purchase of the plant of the company must be settled by Monday night under the present arrangements.

EXTEND HUNT FOR GIRL WHO MURDERED MAN

Blue-eyed Hold-up Is Being Hunted Outside of State Of Illinois

Chicago, June 8.—Police and operatives of the state attorney's office today extended outside the state their search for the blue-eyed, smiling girl bandit who slew Richard Tesmer, wealthy insurance man, at his home here Tuesday night.

Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, foremost among the dozen or more suspects, is being sought in Milwaukee, where she is known to have stopped at a hotel. Discounting the theory that Tesmer was killed by a ring of automobile thieves, which the insurance man has vigorously prosecuted, the police say they are convinced that robbery was the motive for the hold-up of Tesmer and his wife, which ended in the former's death.

More than a score of suspects taken into custody yesterday were released after questioning.

SOVIET MAKES SHARP REPLY

Envoy to Have it "Toned Down" Before Delivery

London, June 8.—Soviet Russia's answer to the latest representations of the British foreign office has arrived in London. It is understood the note is of contentious character on certain points and before presenting it Leonid Krassin, acting as his government's representative here, hoped to have the Moscow authorities temper it so that it will mollify Lord Curzon. In connection with the reiterated demand of the British foreign office for the recall of the Soviet envoys at Teheran and Kabul as well as other matters in dispute.

A Russian trade delegation here declared today that Krassin hoped to hand the revised note to Lord Curzon shortly.

One hundred twenty-five thousand wounded ex-service men of France will get government jobs as a result of a bill just passed by the French Senate reserving certain positions for war wounded.

STILL SEEDING FLAX IN SOME PLACES IN N. D.

Crops Generally Are Reported
Satisfactory Through Northwest

The weekly crop report of The Van Dusen Harrington Co., grain merchants, Minneapolis, as of June 6, follows:

"As usual at this time of the year the crops of the Northwest are in that period of development when they present a fine appearance. General conditions recently have been good and in spite of some delay occasioned by earlier cold and wet weather small grain and corn have made rapid growth.

"During the past week it has been quite warm and sufficient moisture as reported from most districts. There are a few local dry spots in South Dakota, but nothing is suffering up to this time. North Dakota and Eastern Montana, have had heavy rains over a large part of their territory.

"Spring wheat, oats and barley continue to show a generally satisfactory condition. Reports, however, indicate that some fields in North Dakota and Northern South Dakota, are very weedy and others show a rank growth of wild oats.

"Our correspondents in the Judith Basin still advise a very promising prospect for winter wheat in that district but other sections of Montana report conditions as from fair to good. Grasshoppers are appearing in alarming numbers in the North Central part of the state.

"Farmers are still seeding flax on new and old ground in North Dakota and Montana, and it is now believed the flax acreage will be the largest for several years. Early sown flax appears to have made a good start except in a few instances where it has been affected by frost.

"Farmers are cultivating corn for the first time in South Dakota and Minnesota, and our reports are very favorable as to stand and general condition. A large acreage has been planted in North Dakota and Montana. We have a few advices as to damage done by cut worms, but the recent hot weather has put an end to their activities.

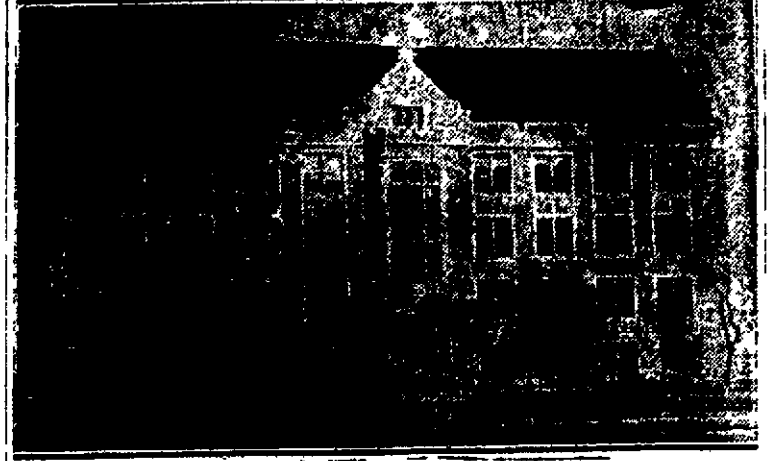

"The winter rye crop shows no improvement. Information from practically all important rye districts indicates that it is very thin on the ground, is heading out short and is generally very disappointing in its development.

"Aside from the unfortunate condition of winter rye we consider the general crop situation as very promising at the present time."

NEW LAW BUILDING SOON TO BE OCCUPIED AT STATE UNIVERSITY

(By Chas. G. Burke)

Grand Forks, N. D., June 7.—The new law school building at the University of North Dakota is finished, according to Chas. L. Ellis, superintendent of grounds and buildings at that institution. Work on the structure has ceased, with the exception of the cleaning up, said Mr. Ellis, and only the lack of equipment such as chairs and tables prohibits the full use of the building for the remainder of the year. Students in law will, however, hold their classes in the building from now to the end of the school year.

The law building was made possible thru an appropriation by the state legislature, of 1921, of $150,000. Original plans called for the completion of the building before the first of February 1921, but the railroad tie up of last summer held up so much of the required building material that it was late in the fall before the outside work was far enough advanced so that work on the interior of the building could be begun and by this time the severe cold of the past winter had set in and the work was tied up again.

In the design, four stories in height, the law building harmonizes with many of the buildings already on the campus, making a valuable and beautiful addition.

The building houses eleven classrooms, a large lecture room, fifteen office rooms, and the law library. When complete equipment arrives, according to Mr. Ellis, the Geology, Sociology and Commercial departments will be housed in the new building.

With the completion of the law building there are now eighteen large buildings on the university campus. Of these 18 buildings ten are used for class and office rooms.

Boardman was second with a score of 94 out of 100.

Fred Chezik of Portal is leading the first half of the state singles championship with a score of 97 out of 100.

Contestants in the double target event will start shooting in the morning.

Scouts Return From Isabel; Awards in Sports

The Scouts returned from Camp Isabel last night. Messrs. Moulé, Hoffman, Dr. Fange, Hanson, Tierney and MacLeod brought the boys home. The boys pronounce Lake Isabel as the best camping grounds in this part of the country.

Monday evening the Scouts were the guests of Rev. Mr. Boulch of the Methodist church. Mr. Boulch invited a number of Dawson boys and girls and a jolly time was had in games and singing.

Tied Hanson and Vernon King joined the camp and remained to its close. Mr. Hanson proved to be a real good scout and camper.

Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Cross of Dawson and their nieces Misses Helen Coulter of Dawson and Gay Taylor of Tappen were camp guests for supper. It was John Anderson's Patrol who were in charge of the cooking and the boys were "lucky" in the manner in which the Andersons performed their duty. Bert Dunn was head waiter and moved himself a Past Master. After supper two all star base ball teams performed for the visitors. The visitors fairly electrified the players who pulled down almost impossible plays. The visiting beauties made a great hit. It is rumored that all the older boys plan to return with the next camp.

The camp base ball league was won by Art Bender's Eagles who were: Art Bender, captain, catcher, H. Lobach, pitcher, 1st base Jack Dingle, 2nd base Mac Taylor, 3rd base H. Danrot, short stop Anderson, 1st F. Wendal Sanders, center F. Joyce Moulé, r. F. Oliver Copenhagen.

In the Tandem Canoe race, Marion Folsom and Hy Danrot were first, Herb O'Hare and Ted Anderson, second John Anderson and Bert Dunn, third In the Canoe Singles, Bert Dunn was first in the fastest heat with Jno. Anderson second and Art Bender third, the other heats were won by Vernon King and Jack Dunham.

Any boy 12 years of age or ones wishing to go to the next camp should phone Mr. MacLeod tonight or tomorrow at 400M.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE
Dramatic, impressive and thrilling. George Melford's latest Paramount picture, "Java Head" will be the attraction at the Eltinge theatre Friday and Saturday. Salem Mass., is the locale of the story, although several of the scenes are laid in China. The story, in brief, tells of the love of a young sea captain, Gerrit Anderson (Albert Roscoe) for a young Chinese maiden, Taou Yuen, played by Leatrice Joy. Gerrit returns from Shanghai with his Chinese wife to find Nettie Vollar (Jacqueline Logan) ready to marry him. Nettie suffers an injury, and Gerrit leaves Taou to go to her. Edward Dunack (Raymond Hatton), a rival of Gerrit's and an opium smoker, tells Taou Yuen that her husband and Nettie Vollar are in love. The young wife orders him from the house and goes to Nettie's home herself, where a dramatic close for the story is reached. Pathe News and an Acrop Facel remedy are on the program.

CAPITOL
A diverting comedy of modern marriage is the Goldwyn photoplay, adapted from a magazine story by Peter B. Kyne, "Brothers Under the Skin," which will be the attraction for two days, beginning on Monday, at the Capitol theatre. Its thesis, that all men are brothers, when it becomes a question of marriage and a man's relations with his wife, no matter what their economic or social station in life, is one that permitted Mr. Kyne to weave a story about two New York households, one in a poverty-stricken flat, the other in a gilded Riverside Drive apartment house, that lent itself to veracious comedy treatment.

Mr. Kyne was aided by Director E. Mason Hopper in making this transcript of marital struggles a real, and an amusing human document. The vein of comedy, tapped early in the first reel, yields excellent tonnage of laughter until the final foot of the last reel. But there is a substratum of powerful drama in "Brothers Under the Skin" which makes of it more than merely fine screen entertainment. There is an amount of truthful observation of human character in the marriage relationship that makes it something of a social study to the analytically minded spectator. Mr. Kyne is artist enough, however, to make a forward-marching story

? A Question a Day ?

Before you buy a car ask the salesman this question: Is the entire mechanism of your motor, including fly wheel, starter gear, and clutch, enclosed in a dust proof housing and running in oil?

(OVERLAND mechanism is entirely enclosed and runs in oil. OVERLAND clutch is of the latest most efficient construction.)

his main preoccupation. There is action aplenty in "Brothers Under the Skin"—action the most of which is of a humorous nature.

The cast is a perfect one—the five principal characters being acted by Helene Chadwick and Pat O'Malley (as the poor married couple); by Claire Windsor and Norman Kerry (as the wealthy pair); and by Mae Busch as the inevitable divorcee to be found in every apartment house in New York. Their team work is truly remarkable in picture-making and brings out fully the truth and comedy of Mr. Kyne's story.

STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR $975

More Cars Shake Themselves to Pieces Than Ever Wear Out

Charge that up to vibration. Vibration causes cars to grow old prematurely by racking their chassis, destroying the "metal life" of vital parts, loosening up their bodies and causing squeaks and rattles. Frequent, costly repairs are the result.

The Studebaker Light-Six is freer from vibration than any car of its approximate size or weight yet produced.

This has been accomplished largely by a complete machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces—a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and found only on a very few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

There are 61 precision operations in the manufacture of the crankshaft alone, 40 of which range in accuracy from one-quarter thousandth to one thousandth of an inch.

The Light-Six motor embodies the most advanced design known to automobile construction. And no chassis at any price is built to more exacting standards of materials and workmanship.

A side from its mechanical excellence and its consequent long life, the Light-Six is handsome in design, extremely comfortable, sturdy, and we believe the most economical car to buy and operate ever offered at $975 or anywhere near this figure.

Its substantial all-steel body, one-piece, rain-proof windshield, ten-inch cushions upholstered in genuine leather, cowl lamps—these are among many features heretofore to be had only in higher-priced cars.

For 71 years the name Studebaker has stood for integrity, quality and value.

Your system demands ALL BRAN if constipation is to be relieved?

Your system needs the "roughage" that Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, supplies. For, it will not only permanently relieve constipation if it is eaten regularly, but its full content of the vital elements of wheat will build health and strength in a wonderful way.

You need bran in its full and beneficial strength and that's what you get in Kellogg's Bran—ALL BRAN! You eat Kellogg's for relief and you will get relief in a way that nature planned. Foods with a bran mixture cannot help the man, woman or child who faces grave illness through constipation. You must have ALL BRAN—"roughage" that will sweep and clean and purify and bring health back!

Children should be given Kellogg's Bran each day; grown people should eat Kellogg's each day—at least two tablespoonfuls, in chronic cases with each meal. Its mechanical action will afford permanent relief.

And, you will find Kellogg's Bran a delight to eat because it is so delicious. As a cereal, sprinkled on other hot or cold cereals, or used in countless bakery batches or in cooking, its nut-like flavor will thrill your appetite—and each spoonful means so much in permanently relieving constipation and in warding off this gravest national ailment. Kellogg recipes are printed on each package.

Start the entire family eating Kellogg's Bran to-day. See the color come back to faded cheeks; see the snap that will go into lagging steps. Kellogg's Bran is wonderful. All grocers sell it!

Mrs. Hermann Scheffer's class tonight at 8:30 o'clock, at the Rialto. The Public is cordially invited.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

HOARDERS
Have you a weakness for hoarding any particular article—such as old coins, stamps, fossils, china or picture postals? In Galion, Ohio, an auctioneer has been selling an amazing mess of "treasure" accumulated by the late eccentric Mrs. Emma Lee.

Her old home, when she died recently, was found packed to the ceilings from cellar to garret with a clutter of dishes, tinware, and thousands of household articles which she had been accumulating and adding to her hoard for 30 years.

The house looked like a warehouse for a general store. So much stuff stood about in boxes and barrels, piled on top of each other, that the owner had only a narrow lane for moving through the rooms.

Though 37 wagonloads of "junk" have been hauled to the dump, the auctioneer says it will take weeks to sell what's left.

Older readers will recall that Cassie Chadwick had a similar weakness for collecting, though she cluttered her home with precious articles such as oriental rugs and porcelains.

The people of Galion are puzzled to understand what caused Mrs. Lee to hoard such an array of utensils that she never used—for instance, dishes by the thousands.

But she was merely the victim of an exaggeration of the hoarding instinct that is in all of us. The stamp collector is in her class, on a smaller scale.

And Mrs. Lee, in hoarding thousands of utensils, was just as sane as the millionaire who hoards more money than he needs. The rich man can't take his dollars with him when he dies, any more than Mrs. Lee could take her old curiosity shop.

No doubt, she got as much satisfaction out of sitting and contemplating her hoard as the rich man chuckling over his bankbook. She, at least, saved something useful.

The squirrel hoards just enough nuts to last him and his family through the winter. When he gets sufficient, he quits.

The hoarding instinct, peculiarly characteristic of man, is found in very few forms of life. Rats and crows occasionally hoard articles useless to them. In the Yukon there is a mountain rodent known as the "trade rat," which will rob a cabin of everything it can carry to its nest—and leave, in exchange for each stolen article, a twig or chip of wood. A prospector up there is apt to return to his home and find it rifled, with a pile of chips heaped on the floor in trade.

The black bear also will plunder a cabin, even taking a stove to pieces, but he carries each article in a different direction—scatters the flour on the ground and the other articles so far apart and away that the owner would have to hunt a year to gather his furnishings together again.

RICHEST

Hugo Stinnes is worth only a fifth as much as Henry Ford, world's richest man, figuring Ford's fortune at $50 millions. Ford really is richer, for his annual business income (before the tax man gets him) is equivalent to 5 per cent interest on $2380 million dollars.

The elder Rockefeller would still be richer than Henry if he hadn't given away and endowed by hundreds of millions until today only 300 to 500 million dollars stand between him and the poorhouse. What charities will appeal to Ford when he begins distributing his wealth on a big scale back to its source?

JOHN D.

Rockefeller and Ford have many things in common, in addition to their industries being interlocked, John furnishing the gasoline, Ford using it up.

Both have surrounded themselves with high-salaried experts, men of the $50,000 to $100,000 a year class.

Both are wizards at efficiency. Less than a tenth of one per cent of the gross receipts of Standard of New Jersey, for instance goes for salaries and all other management charges.

John D. also has for a generation paid his employees as well as Ford. Why is he unpopular, Ford popular?

FATE

It's queer how our lives mysteriously are linked to others, paths criss-crossing time and again. Spiritualists believe we travel through eternity in "circles" or groups.

Near Rochester, N. Y., a farmer saves a drunken man from drowning. An hour later, homeward bound, the farmer's auto hits and fractures the skull of the drunk as he unexpectedly staggers out onto the road from the darkness. That is fate's criss-crossing, with a vengeance. The victim is thinking it over in the hereafter.

POLITICIANS

Do you recall when the ward-healers sent hacks to take you to the voting polls—and stopped at frequent saloons along the way? Times have changed, so naturally elections are less interesting.

The hack idea is revived in the Canadian Far North, where airplanes will be used to "bring out the vote" from the backwoods into Moose Factory.

An interesting possibility is that a politician is always apt to fall out.

WEALTH

A lawsuit reveals that the late William Penn Snyder left an estate of 40 million dollars.

It starts one thinking about our system, when one man can accumulate and leave this much, yet not one American in 1000 ever heard of him. Did you? He was an iron baron—owned furnaces in the Shenango valley, ore freighters on the Great Lakes and big iron mines in the Lake Superior country, not counting his sidelines.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts.

"Jack Town!" called Mister Punch, the conductor of the Choo-Choo Land Express. Ten minutes for lunch.

Nancy and Nick wanted no lunch, but they didn't want to ask about Ruby Joan Nancy's rag doll that was lost. So out they tumbled and rushed away at once to ask a policeman if anybody like Ruby Joan had been around.

Jack Town was a queer place, there wasn't a doubt. Everybody in it had to have a Jack in his name or he couldn't live there.

There were Jacks, and Jack-in-the-Boxes, and Jack Sterns, and Jack Straws and Jack O' Lanterns, and Jack-in-the-Pulpits, and Jack-of-All-Trades and all the Jacks in the world.

The policeman was a Jumping Jack, because he had to be everywhere at once.

So the Twins went up to him at once. "Did you see Ruby Joan, my rag-doll?" asked Nancy. "She had shoe-button eyes, and a polka-dot dress, and polka-dot stockings, but her hair was only painted on like her rosy cheeks. Did you see her?"

"No, I didn't," answered the Jumping Jack policeman. But I'll ask Jack A'Spandy and Jack B Nimble and Jack Sprat and Jack the Piper and Jack the Giant Killer and Jack A'Nory and the Jack of Clubs. If none of them saw her, she can't be here at all."

Pretty soon he came jumping back, grinning his club. "No one in Jack Town has seen her," he said. "I'm sorry. Come again when you can stay longer."

"Thank you, we will," promised Nancy.

"Toot! Toot!" went the Choo-Choo Land Express. The Twins ran and jumped on just in time.

THERE'S A COG LOOSE SOMEWHERE

North Dakota Bird Notes

By O. A. Stevens
Agricultural College Secretary,
State Audubon Society.

The final reports on late arrivals here continued to come in slowly.

The night hawk was seen at Carrington May 29 and Flaxton May 30, thus checking up nicely with the Fargo record of May 25. The red headed woodpecker also at Carrington May 30. The writer heard a dickcissel on June 1 and cuckoo the day following.

No other reports of these two had been received except one of cuckoo from Williston a few days before. A scarlet tanager was reported from Dickinson. Young robins and grackles are out of the nest.

The humming bird is reported from Jamestown May 30. The collared umbine which is in blossom now is one of their favorite flowers and they should be seen about it. Late in the summer they are regular visitors at the gladiolus. Some other flowers which they have been observed to visit are: touch-me-not, evening primrose, larkspur, milkweed, iris, cardinal flower, honeysuckle, wild bergamot, day lily, morning glory and red clover. They do not feed upon the nectar alone as some may have supposed, but mostly upon small insects which are attracted to the flowers.

With this article we shall close the series for the season. The secretary in much pleased with the interest which has been shown and feels that the season has been very successful. He desires to express appreciation for the assistance given by the following people in sending reports from their localities: E. T. Barber, Wakarusa; R. L. Humphreys, Fargo; H. C. Pollock, LaMoure; Albert Harris, Kindred; J. Powers, Leonard; Rev. J. D. Dickey, Dickinson; Mrs. A. W. Guest, Jamestown; Russell Reid, Bismarck; G. F. Hunt, Beach; Mrs. L. H. Herzog, Bowman; Mrs. C. D. Wheeler, Hope; Joe Bruening, Carrington; Dr. E. G. Demott, Minot; J. O. Haviland, Flaxton; J. H. McClelland, Arnegard; Miss Bessie R. Baldwin, Williston; also to others who have furnished a few records or assisted those mentioned.

Looking back over the lists we find that nearly 150 species have been reported, with a total of about 500 records. Of these, what are the birds most commonly noticed? We find that there are 30 birds which appear in 6 or more out of 15 lists, and that the meadow lark heads the list. Arranged according to the number of lists in which they appear they are as follows: meadow lark 13, robin 12, flicker 12, geese 10, Harris sparrow 10, junco 9, mourning dove 9, red wing 9, Arkansas kingbird 9, tree sparrow 8, crow 8, chipping sparrow 8, tope 8, wren 8, kingbird 8, bluebird 7, killdeer 7, grackle 7, white throated sparrow 7, rose-breasted grosbeak 7, lark bunting 7, horned lark 6, redheaded woodpecker 6, martin 6, myrtle warbler 6, bobolink 6, brown thrasher 6, Baltimore Oriole 6.

Another point of interest is that of the first eight birds seen in early spring had an average of 9 reports each, the next 25 averaged 5 each, and after that still lower. This seems to tell how much more attention the first ones receive. Some of the later ones also received many reports, but there were more which had but few.

STOP BACKACHE, KIDNEY TROUBLE

Bachache, Rheumatic Pains, dull headache, tired feeling, too frequent urination, discolored or strong odor are symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. "I was always having a backache which caused me great suffering," writes Mrs. Feber, Medford, Mass. "Could not sleep and at times I could not stand straight. Tried Foley Kidney Pills and found relief." Stop backache, kidney and bladder troubles with Foley Kidney Pills.

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO HER SISTER, LESLIE PRESCOTT

VERY DEAR, THOUGH MEDITATING SISTER OF MINE:

If you feel that way about it, don't come to New York to see me off, for Karl is coming over with us.

I told mother it would be all right for you to say goodbye by letter as I expected some sort of a complication. Seriously though, I think I'd better have a talk with you.

For heaven's sake, don't divide your pearl beads with anyone. I don't mind telling you that there is a most peculiar history connected with them and some time someone may come to you and ask you to give them back.

Let's say they were the "something borrowed," instead of the "something new" that you wore on your wedding day.

Somehow, I have a hunch that you will have to return them to me some day, that I may give them back. You see the person from whom I obtained them may be sorry that I gave them to you and, besides, that person told me he had them for a long time and was very fond of them because he had intended them for the woman he had loved.

He was very sad and despairing then and I almost felt that if I did not take them he might throw them away, so anxious was he to get rid of them.

However, you must know, Leslie, that Time is a great healer and even the most devoted of lovers may love again. Perhaps this man might do so and if he did, it would be quite all right.

BLACK ORGANDIE
Black organdie is seen infrequently enough to have the charm of novelty when it does appear. Frequently it is combined with silver cloth or a colorful lining, and brightened up with gay embroidery.

PAINTED SILK
Painted silk frocks are a novelty this season. The paint is applied rather thickly to give a raised surface. The frocks are cut on the straight chemise pattern and only loosely caught about the waist with a sash of the plain silk.

Wire From Leslie Prescott to Alice Hamilton

You foolish child. Of course I'll be in New York to see you off and I won't say a word to anyone until we have had a long talk.

I love you always.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray arrives in Dallas and prepares to break financially the well-known Henry Nelson, who is his enemy. Allie Briskow, the daughter, loves Gray, but he is in love with Barbara, daughter of Tom Parker. Bud Briskow, son of Gus runs away from school. Gray follows to bring Bud home and finds the boy in the hands of an adventurer. Bud resents interference and he and Gray fight until Bud is knocked unconscious. Gray and an associate, Mallow, bring the son of Bud's lady friend to Bud's hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"Love! She's splendid!" he chuckled. "Buddy, I-I like that woman."

It was mid-afternoon of the next day. Mrs. Fulton, after a restless night was packing her trunks. She halted her labors for a second time to scan a brief note that had arrived a few moments before and ran as follows:

DEAR MRS. FULTON—I am not really such a bad sort as you consider me, and I'm genuinely interested in that boy of yours. Let's cry quits and have a serious talk about him a nd—perhaps other things.

Sincerely yours, CALVIN GRAY.

She was thus engaged when there came a knock, and in answer to her voice the writer entered.

"Mrs. Fulton, I have learned that life is a mixed affair, and that most of our actions are the results of conflicting motives. Yes, and that we ourselves are products of conflicting forces, good and evil. Few of us are as good as we would like to have people believe nor as bad as we appear. I wonder if you will believe me when I say that I—like you—

"Certainly not."

"Nevertheless, I do. For one thing, you are a good fighter and a good loser. I try to be, but I fear I lack your spirit. I would not have hurt you willingly."

The woman tossed her head and turned away; when she spoke, it was wearily: "I might have known I couldn't make the jump. I never did win a big race. A good loser, eh? Well, I've had enough practice at it. How is Buddy? Hurt, I suppose. His young life is blasted; he'll never trust another woman."

"He is standing it pretty well, and is greatly cheered by the fact that he can see out of his left eye practically as well as ever. He is going back to the oil fields and learn the business. I am going to put him to work. What are you going to do with Bennie?"

"Do with him? What can I do with him?"

"He is a bright boy."

"I'm bright too, but I have all I can do to get by."

"I'd like to help you make a man of him."

"What? You? How?"

"I'd like to put him in business and teach him that there is no profit in short-changing customers. I'd enjoy giving the boy a hand up, but he is more than I'd care to tackle alone."

"There's Mallow to help you. He'd be a refining influence." The mother's lip curled.

"How about you?"

"Me?"

"Isn't the sort of life you are living becoming a bit tiresome? Aren't you about fed up on uncertainties?"

"I suppose you learned this—beyond practice in the army," Mrs. Fulton said, harshly.

"Anybody can make a good living in a country like this if he cares enough to try. I'll back you if you need money."

"And—what's the price?"

"My price? Oh, I'd feel well repaid if some day Bennie acknowledged that I was a 'regular guy,' and if you agreed."

"Is that all?"

"Quite all. Is there something you do—well?"

"I can cook. I'm a good cook. Women like me usually have hobbies they never can follow—and I have two. I can make a fool of a stove, and I—I can design children's clothes, wonderful things, new things."

"Will you come to Wichita Falls and start a restaurant and make good things to eat if I supply the money and the customers?"

"Will I?" The speaker's face had flushed, her eyes had begun to sparkle.

"Then it's a bargain," Gray declared, gayly. "Why, you'll get rich for it. It's the chance of a lifetime. I'll guarantee you success. I'll drum up trade if I have to turn sandwich man and ring a bell. Leave the details to me."

Margie Fulton sank slowly into the nearest chair, regardless of the fact that it was piled full of lacy, white, expensive things; her voice quavered, broke, as she said: "Gee Mr. Gray! I figured there must be some decent men in the world—but I never thought I'd meet one."

CHAPTER XXIII

The Game of Wits

A new strike in one of the western counties had become public, and a brand-new oil excitement was born overnight. Trains were jammed with racing automobiles; in the neighborhood of the new well ensued scenes to duplicate those of other pools. For the first week or two there was a frenzy of buying and selling, a speculation in oil acreage and town lots.

The Nelsons, of course, were only on the ground for in spite of the father's contention that they could ill afford, at that moment, to tie up more money in unproductive property, the son had argued that they must have "protection," and his arguments had prevailed.

Now, oddly enough, this new oil discovery did not develop as had been expected—in fact the excitement died out quickly—and when Henry Nelson undertook to dispose of his holdings he was faced by a heavy loss, for Gray was offering adjoining acreage at low prices.

Following this unhappy experience, the scandal about the Jackson well became public—the Atlantic Company having at last located the leak in its pipe line—and the whole Red River district enjoyed a great laugh.

Miss Parker, of course, was deeply chagrined at her connection with the fraud; nevertheless, the banker felt his flesh turn cold at the narrowness of his escape.

About this time a big gasser blew in the north of Louisiana fields, and wise oil men began to talk about Arkansas and quietly to gather in acreage. Less than a week later one of Nelson's field men brought into the bank a youth who owned some property in the latter state. This yokel was a sick man; he was thin and white, he had a racing cough and he knew nothing about oil except from hearsay. All he knew was that he would die if he didn't get a warmer, drier climate, but the story he told caused Henry Nelson to stare queerly at his field man. That very night the latter left town.

On the third night thereafter, in answer to a telegram Nelson and the Arkansas farmer slipped unobtrusively out of Wichita Falls. It so happened that Brick Stoner, en route to Hot Springs for a little rest, was a passenger on the same train. Stoner returned in due time, much rested, and he brought with him a large check to the firm's account.

"We timed it to the minute," he told McDade and Mallow. "That gasser couldn't have come in better if we'd ordered it. Nelson's dickering under cover for more acreage near what he's got, but I tipped off who he was."

"He fell easy, eh?"

Stoner grinned. "He was so pleased with himself at swindling an invalid, and so scared somebody would discover those seepages that he couldn't hardly wait to sign up. It hadn't been for the general excitement, he might of insisted on time to do some exploring, but he's pulled a rig off another job and he's sending it right."

"We've got some good news, too," McDade asserted. "Avenger Number One is trying hard to come in."

"No?"

"I tell you Gray's got a rabbit foot. If we continue to trail along with him, I'll be losing you as a partner, Brick."

"How so?"

"Why, he'll be turning honest. It seems to pay."

"Um-m. Probably I'd better keep all this Nelson money and leave you—"

"Oh not at all," the junior partner said quickly. "That isn't an oil deal, strictly speaking, for you say there ain't oil enough on the land to grease a jackknife. I look on it as a real-estate speculation."

With a laugh Stoner accepted this explanation, and then announced that he was hungry for his breakfast.

This time Mallow spoke up. "I'm bally-hooing for a new joint; Fulton's Fancy Waffle Foundry. Follow me and I'll try to wedge you in. But you'll have to eat fast and pick your teeth on the sidewalk, for we need the room." In answer to Stoner's stare, the speaker explained his interest

Following the business meeting Mrs. Dunn told of the arrival of the first train in the city and the origin of the "Monad" the emblem used by the Northern Pacific. The little train, she said was a symbol used by the Chinese as an ornament or as a good luck sign, a large "Monad" frequently being placed over the door or on the house some place not at all dissimilar to the way in which the horse shoe is used in this country. When the "Monad" is inverted, it was the shape of a horse shoe.

HOARDERS
Have you a weakness for hoarding any particular article—such as old coins, stamps, fossils, china or picture postals? In Gallion, Ohio, an auctioneer has been selling an amazing mass of "treasure" accumulated by the late eccentric Mrs. Emma Lee.
Her old home, when she died recently, was found packed to the ceilings from cellar to garret with a clutter of dishes, tinware, and thousands of household articles which she had been accumulating and adding to her hoard for 30 years.
The house looked like a warehouse for a general store. So much stuff stood about in boxes and barrels, piled on top of each other, that the owner had only a narrow lane for moving through the rooms.
Though 37 wagonloads of "junk" have been hauled to the dump, the auctioneer says it will take weeks to sell what's left.
Older readers will recall that Cassie Chadwick had a similar weakness for collecting, though she cluttered her home with precious articles such as oriental rugs and porcelains.

The people of Gallion are puzzled to understand what caused Mrs. Lee to hoard such an array of utensils that she never used—for instance, dishes by the thousands.
But she was merely the victim of an exaggeration of the hoarding instinct that is in all of us. The stamp collector is in her class, on a smaller scale.
And Mrs. Lee, in hoarding thousands of utensils, was just as sane as the millionaire who hoards more money than he needs. The rich man can't take his dollars with him when he dies, any more than Mrs. Lee could take her old curiosity shop.
No doubt, she got as much satisfaction out of sitting and contemplating her hoard as the rich man chuckling over his bankbook. She, at least, saved something useful.

The squirrel hoards just enough nuts to last him and his family through the winter. When he gets sufficient, he quits.
The hoarding instinct, peculiarly characteristic of man, is found in very few forms of life. Rats and crows occasionally hoard articles useless to them. In the Yukon there is a mountain rodent known as the "trade rat," which will rob a cabin of everything it can carry to its nest—and leave, in exchange for each stolen article, a twig or chip of wood.
A prospector up there is apt to return to his home and find it rifled, with a pile of chips heaped on the floor in trade.
The black bear also will plunder a cabin, even taking a stove to pieces, but he carries each article in a different direction—scatters the flour on the ground and the other articles so far apart and away that the owner would have to hunt a year to gather his furnishings together again.

RICHEST
Hugo Stinnes is worth only a fifth as much as Henry Ford, world's richest man, figuring Ford's fortune at $50 millions. Ford really is richer, for his annual business income (before the tax man gets him) is equivalent to 5 per cent interest on $280 million dollars.
The elder Rockefeller would still be richer than Henry if he hadn't given away and endowed by hundreds of millions until today only 300 to 500 million dollars stand between him and the poorhouse. What charities will appeal to Ford when he begins distributing his wealth on a big scale back to its source?

JOHN D.
Rockefeller and Ford have many things in common, in addition to their industries being interlocked, John furnishing the gasoline, Ford using it up.
Both have surrounded themselves with high-salaried experts, men of the $50,000 to $100,000 a year class.
Both are wizards at efficiency. Less than a tenth of one per cent of the gross receipts of Standard of New Jersey, for instance goes for salaries and all other management charges.
John D. also has for a generation paid his employees as well as Ford. Why is he unpopular, Ford popular?

FATE
It's queer how our lives mysteriously are linked to others, paths criss-crossing time and again. Spiritualists believe we travel through eternity in "circles" or groups.
Near Rochester, N. Y., a farmer saves a drunken man from drowning. An hour later, homeward bound, the farmer's auto hits and fractures the skull of the drunk as he unexpectedly staggers out onto the road from the darkness. That is fate's criss-crossing, with a vengeance. The victim is thinking it over in the hereafter.

POLITICIANS
Do you recall when the ward-healers sent hacks to take pa to the voting polls—and stopped at frequent saloons along the way? Times have changed, so naturally—elections are less interesting.
The hack idea is revived in the Canadian Far North, where airplanes will be used to "bring out the vote" from the backwoods into Moose Factory.
An interesting possibility is that a politician is always apt to fall out.

WEALTH
A lawsuit reveals that the late William Penn Snyder left an estate of 40 million dollars.

He was an iron baron—owned furnaces in the Shenango valley, ore freighters on the Great Lakes and big iron mines in the Lake Superior country, not counting his sidelines.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts.
"Jack Town," called Mister Punch, the conductor of the Choo-Choo Land Express. Ten minutes for lunch. Nancy and Nick wanted no lunch, but they did want to ask about Ruby Joan Nancy's rag doll that was lost. So out they tumbled and rushed away at once to ask a policeman if anybody like Ruby Joan had been around.
Jack Town was a queer place, there wasn't a doubt. Everybody in it had to have a Jack in his name or he couldn't live there.
There were Jacks, and Jack-in-the-Boxes, and Jack Sterns, and Jack Staws and Jack O'Lanterns, and Jack-in-the-Pulpits, and Jack-of-All-Trades and all the Jacks in the world.
The policeman was a Jumping Jack, because he had to be everywhere at once.
So the Twins went up to him at once. "Did you see Ruby Joan, my rag-doll?" asked Nancy. "She had shoe-button eyes and a polka-dot dress, and polka-dot stockings, but her hair was only pointed on like her rosy cheeks. Did you see her?"
"No, I didn't," answered the Jumping Jack policeman. But I'll ask Jack A'Sparky and Jack Be Numbly and Jack Sprat and Jack the Piper and Jack the Giant Killer and Jack A'Nory and the Jack of Clubs. If none of them saw her, she can't be here at all."
Pretty soon he came jumping back, swinging his club.
"No one in Jack Town has seen her," he said. "I'm sorry. Come again when you can stay longer."
"Thank you," we will," promised Nancy.
"Toot! Toot!" went the Choo-Choo Land Express. The Twins ran and jumped on just in time.

North Dakota Bird Notes
By O. A. Stevens
Agricultural College Secretary, State Audubon Society.
The final reports on late arrivals here continued to come in slowly. The night hawk was seen at Carrington May 29 and Platon May 30, thus checking up nicely with the Fargo record of May 25. The red headed woodpecker also at Carrington May 30. The writer heard a dickcissel on June 1 and cuckoo the day following. No other reports of these two had been received except one of cuckoo from Williston a few days before. A scarlet tanager was reported from Dickinson. Young robins and grackles are out of the nests.
The hummingbird is reported from Jamestown May 30. The colubine which is in blossom now is one of their favorite flowers and they should be seen about it. Late in the summer they are regular visitors at the gladiolus. Some other flowers which they have been observed to visit are: touch-me-not, evening primrose, larkspur, milkweed, iris, cardinal flower, honeysuckle, wild bergamot, day lily, morning glory and red clover. They do not feed upon the nectar alone as some may have supposed, but mostly upon small insects which are attracted to the flowers.
With this article we shall close the series for the season. The secretary in much pleased with the interest which has been shown and feels that the season has been very successful. He desires to express appreciation for the assistance given by the following people in sending reports from their localities: E. T. Barrett, H. C. Pollock, LaMoure; Albert Harris, Kindred; J. Powers, Leonard; Rev. J. D. Dickey, Dickinson; Mrs. A. W. Guest, Jamestown; Russell Reid Bismarck; G. F. Hunt, Beach; Mr. Lucien C. Olson, Medora; Mrs. L. H. Herzog, Bowman; Mrs. C. D. Wheeler, Hope; Joe Bruening, Carrington; J. B. G. Demott, Minot; J. O. Howland, Platon; J. H. McDaniel, Arnegard; Miss Bertha R. Baldwin, Williston; also to others who have furnished a few records or assisted those mentioned.
Looking back over the lists we find that nearly 150 species have been reported, with a total of about 500 records. Of these, what are the birds most commonly noticed? We find that there are 30 birds which appear in 6 or more out of 15 lists; and that the warbler lark heads the list. Arranged according to the number of lists in which they appear they are as follows: meadow lark 13, robin 12, flicker 12, geese 10, Harris sparrow 10, junco 9, mourning dove 9, red wing 9, Arkansas kingbird 9, tree sparrow 8, crow 8, chipping sparrow 8, tobe 8, green 8, kingbird 8, bluebird 7, killdeer 7, grackle 7, white-throated sparrow 7, rose-breasted grosbeak 7, lark bunting 7, horned lark 6, redheaded woodpecker 6, martin 6, myrtle warbler 6, bobolink 6, brown thrasher 6, Baltimore Oriole 6.
Another point of interest is that of the first eight birds seen in early spring had an average of 9 reports each, the next 25 averaged 5 each, and after that still lower. This seems to tell how much more attention the first ones receive. Some of the later ones also received many reports, but there were more which had but few.

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO HER SISTER, LESLIE PRESCOTT
VERY DEAR, THOUGH MEDDLING SISTER OF MINE:
If you feel that way about it, don't come to New York to see me off, for Karl is coming over with us. I told mother it would be all right for you to go goodbye by letter as I expected some sort of a complication. Seriously though, I think I'd better have a talk with you.
I don't mean to, I don't divide your head with anyone. I don't mind telling you that there is a most peculiar history connected with them and some time someone may come to you and ask you to give them back.
Let's say they were the "something borrowed" instead of the "something new" that you wore on your wedding day.
Somehow, I have a hunch that you will have to return them to me some day, that I may give them back. You see this per on from whom I obtained them may be sorry that I gave them to you and, besides, that person told me he had them for a long time and was very fond of them because he had intended them for the woman he had loved.
He was very sad and despairing then and I almost felt that if I did not take them he might throw them away, so anxious was he to get rid of them.
However, you must know, Leslie, that Time is a great healer and even the most devoted of lovers may love again. Perhaps this man might do so and if he did, it would be quite all right.
You foolish child. Of course I'll be in New York to see you off and I won't say a word to anyone until we have had a long talk.
I love you always.
ALICE.

BLACK ORGANDIE
Black organdie is seen infrequently enough to have the charm of novelty when it does appear. Frequently it is combined with silver cloth or a colorful lining, and brightened up with gay embroidery.
PAINTED SILK
Painted silk frocks are a novelty this season. The paint is applied rather thickly to give a raised surface. The frocks are cut on the straight chemise pattern—and only loosely caught about the waist with a sash of the plain silk.
EVERETT TRUE
BY CONDO
SOME PEOPLE NEVER GET IN OR OUT OF A CAR SEAT WITHOUT WALLOWING ALL OVER YOU AND KNOCKING YOUR HAT OFF OR SIDEWAYS, BUT YOU NEVER TOO OLD TO LEARN!!!

Remember the recital from Mrs. Hermann Scheffer's class tonight at 8:30 o'clock, at the Rialto. The Public is cordially invited.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Calvin Gray arrived in Dallas and prepared to break financially the well-known Henry Nelson, who is his enemy. Gray becomes friendly with the Briskow family, who own oil wells. Allie Briskow, the daughter, loves Gray, but he is in love with Barbara, daughter of Tom Parker. Bud Briskow, son of Gus, runs away from school. Gray follows to bring Bud home and finds the boy in the hands of an adventurer. Bud resents interference and he and Gray fight until Bud is knocked unconscious. Gray and an associate, Mallow, bring the son of Bud's lady friend to Bud's hotel.
NOW GO ON WITH STORY—
"By Jove! She's splendid!" he chuckled. "Buddy, I—I like that woman."
It was mid-afternoon of the next day. Mrs. Fulton, after a restless night was packing her trunks. She halted her labors for a second time to give a brief note that had arrived a few moments before and ran as follows:
DEAR MRS. FULTON—I am not really such a bad sort as you consider me, and I'm genuinely interested in that boy of yours. Let's cry quits and have a serious talk about him a nd—perhaps other things.
Sincerely yours,
CALVIN GRAY.
She was thus engaged when there came a knock, and in answer to her voice the writer entered.
"Mrs. Fulton, I have learned that life is a mixed affair, and that most of our actions are the results of conflicting motives. Yes, and that we ourselves are products of conflicting forces, good and evil. Few of us are as good as we would like to have people believe nor as bad as we appear. I wonder if you will believe me when I say that I—like you."

"Nevertheless, I do. For one thing, you are a good fighter and a good loser. I try to be, but I fear I lack your spirit. I would not have hurt a woman's head and turned away, when she spoke, it was wearily: 'I might have known I couldn't make the jump. I never did win a big race. A good loser, eh? Well, I've had enough practice at it. How is Buddy? Hurt, I suppose. His young life is blasted; he'll never trust another woman.'"
"He is standing it pretty well, and is greatly cheered by the fact that he can get out of his left eye practically as well as ever. He is going back to the oil fields and learn the business. I am going to put him to work. What are you going to do with Belle?"
"Do with him? What can I do with him?"
"He is a bright boy."
"I'm bright too, but I have all I can do to get by."
"I'd like to help you make a man of him."
"What? You? How?"
"I'd like to put him in business and teach him that there is no profit in short-changing customers. I'd enjoy giving the boy a hand up, but he is more than I'd care to tackle alone."
"There's Mallow to help you. He'd be a refining influence." The mother's lip curled.
"How about you?"
"Me?"
"Isn't the sort of life you are living becoming a bit tiresome? Aren't you about fed up on uncertainties?" The object of these queries drew a deep breath; her eyelids flickered, but she continued to stare at the speaker. "Worry brings deeper wrinkles than old age. Wouldn't you like to tie to something solid and be able to show Belle that you are, at heart, the sort of woman I consider you? Well, soon be getting old enough to wonder if you are what he thinks you are or if—"
"I suppose you learned this—beyond practice in the army," Mrs. Fulton said, hoarsely.
"Anybody can make a good living in a country like this if he cares enough to try. I'll back you if you need money."
"And—what's the price?"
"My price? Oh, I'd feel well repaid if some day Bennie acknowledged that I was a regular guy, and if you agreed."
"Is that all?"
"Quite all. Is there something you do want?"
"I can cook. I'm a good cook. Women like me usually have hobbies they never can follow—and I have two. I can make a fool of a stove, and I—I can design children's clothes, wonderful things, new things—"
"Will you come to Wichita Falls and start a restaurant and make good things to eat if I supply the money and the customers?"
"Will I?" The speaker's face had flushed; her eyes had begun to sparkle.
"Then it's a bargain," Gray declared, gayly. "Why, you'll get rich, for it is the chance of a lifetime. I'll guarantee patronage. I'll drum up trade if I have to turn sandwich man and ring a bell. Leave the details to me."
Margie Fulton sank slowly into the nearest chair, regardless of the fact that it was piled full of lacy, white, expensive things; her voice quavered, broke, as she said: "See Mr. Gray! I figured there must be some decent men in the world—but I never thought I'd meet one."

Following this unhappy experience, the scandal about the Jackson will become public—the Atlantic company having at last located the leak in its pipe line—and the whole Red River district enjoyed a great laugh.
Miss Parker, of course, was deeply chagrined at her connection with the fraud; nevertheless, the banker felt his flesh turn cold at the narrowness of his escape.
About this time a big gasser blew in the north of Louisiana fields, and wise oil men began to talk about Arkansas and quietly to gather in area.
Less than a week later one of Nelson's field men brought into the bank a youth who owned some property in the latter state. This yokel was a sick man; he was thin and white; he had a racking cough and he knew nothing about oil except from hearsay. All he knew was that he would die if he didn't get to a warmer, drier climate, but the story he told caused Henry Nelson to stare queerly at his field man that very night the latter left town.
On the third night thereafter, in answer to a telegram Nelson and the Arkansas farmer slipped untravelsly out of Wichita Falls. It so happened that Brick Stoner, en route to Hot Springs, on this coast, was a passenger on the same train. Stoner returned in due time, much rested, and he brought with him a large check to the firm's account.
"We timed it to the minute," he told McWade and Mallow. "That gasser couldn't have come in better if we'd ordered it. Nelson's dickering under cover for more acreage near what he's got, but I tipped off who he was."
"He fell easy, eh?"
Stoner grinned. "He" was a pleased with himself at swindling an invalid, and so seemed somebody would discover those seepages that he couldn't hardly wait to sign up. It hadn't been for the general excitement, he might of insisted on time to do some exploring, but he'd pulled a rig off another job and he's sending it right up."
"We've got some good news, too," McWade asserted. "Aveger Number One is trying hard to come in."
"No?"
"I tell you Gray's got a rabbit foot. If we continue to trail along with him, I'll be losing you as a partner, Brick."
"How so?"
"Why, I'll be turning honest. It seems to pay."
"Um—m—probably I'd better keep all this Nelson money and leave you—"
"Oh not at all," the junior partner said quickly. "That isn't an oil deal, strictly speaking, for you say there ain't oil enough on the land to grease a jackknife. I look on it as a real-estate speculation."
With a laugh Stoner accepted this explanation, and then announced that he was hungry for his breakfast.

This time Mallow spoke up. "I'm bally-hoing for a new joint; Fulton's Fancy Waffle Foundry. Fulton and I'll try to wedge you in. But you'll have to eat fast and pick your teeth on the sidewalk, for we need the room." In answer to Stoner's stare, the speaker explained his interest in the welfare of Wichita Falls' newest eating place, and en route thereto he told how Margie Fulton came to be running it. "Gray did it. He got the Parker girl to help us, and we had the place all fixed up by the time Margie got here. She's tickled pink, and it'll coin money—if it isn't pinched."
"Pinched?"
"Sure! Bennie's the cashier, and he puns everything from dimes to dishwaters. Force of habit! Better you change till I break him of short-changing the customers."
It was thus that for Henry Nelson when Avenger Number One came in, for it made necessary immediate drilling operations on his part. All the worst of it was the well was not big enough to establish a high value for his holdings. It was just enough of a producer to force him to begin three offsets and that, for the moment, was an undertaking decidedly inconvenient.

SHANLEY CLAN LANDS HARD IN TWO INNINGS

Pitching Battle Broken Up At Park When Heavy Artillery Opens

BOARDMAN IN BOX

Charley Strikes Out 13 "Twins" Pitching Remarkable Ball

Two southpaws, "Lefty" Keegan of New Rockford-Carrington and Charley Boardman of the Capital City crew, staged a pretty pitcher's battle at the local park last evening for six innings. In the six innings there were few and the only runs made were by the "Twins" which they shouldn't have had.

In the seventh the Shanley clan evidently decided that Keegan had been going long enough and they started to hit. They made two runs in the seventh and six more in the eighth frame, winning the first game from the "Twins" by a score of 8 to 3.

It was a good game and hard fought all the way through until Bismarck's heavy artillery went into action.

Charley Boardman, who started the season at Jamestown like he intended to be the leading pitcher of the league, kept up his good work. He pitched great ball throughout, struck out 13 men, passed hit three and only one solid blow was recorded on him, the other three credited to the "Twins" being hits of the scratchy order. In addition Boardman joined in the heavy hitting, his blows including a three bagger with one on.

New Rockford Scores First

New Rockford scored first blood in the fourth. Kennedy got to first when Noll dropped Boardman's throw and stole second. Dougan took Lauber's intended sacrifice. Rammer flied out to right. Jude walked. Seibold put one past first. Kennedy Randall threw to second and Condon couldn't see the ball against the sun and Jude scored. Seibold came home on a wild pitch.

In the seventh one Boardman put one too far toward second for Rammer to handle and was safe at first. Noll got a three bagger in left, scoring Boardman. Noll fanned. Noll scored. Jennings was going out. Ennis to Meyers.

In the next inning Bismarck batted round. Randall, the first man up, flied to right. Shanley walked. Dougan hit to left for two bases, putting Shanley on third. Bernier lined one to right, and Shanley and Dougan scored. Boardman hit a long one to right-center, scoring Bernier. Noll cracked out a two-bitter hit. Boardman scoring. Noll walked. Jennings fanned. Condon produced a hit, scoring Noll and Nord. Randall flied to right.

In spite of the fact that they haven't won many games the "Twins" looked good in the field last night. "Lefty" Keegan proved a crafty pitcher, and Bismarck batters had a hard time connecting for six innings. He fanned nine.

See New Faces

The local fans saw some new faces in the Bismarck line-up in action for the first time this season. Don Dougan caught the kind of a game expected of him, sharing a couple of hard fouls in addition to taking everything Boardman could feed him. New Randall was in right and stole two bases with ease in addition to cracking out two hits. Al Bernier, pitcher and outfielder, dropped a fly but also delivered a hit in the pinch.

Because an outfielder has not arrived to fill Reider's shoes Jennings, pitcher, was in left and Bernier in center with Noll on first.

Boardman probably will be on first today and tomorrow and will pitch again Sunday.

RUTH PLAYING BETTER THAN EVER

Babe's Fine All-round Work More Valuable Than Mere Home Runs

By Billy Evans.
"If Babe Ruth doesn't hit his quota of home runs in 1923 the Yankees are going to be decidedly up against it."

That was the belief expressed by many of the baseball experts prior to the opening of the season. To a majority, the hope of the Yankees depended almost entirely on Ruth's slugging.

Can Ruth come back?
That proved as great a topic for discussion. Would Bambino after six months of intensive training regain the batting eye that made him the most feared batsman in all the history of the game?

Ruth, during the first six weeks of play, has upset the preseason dope in a great many ways. He has given the lie to several well-defined beliefs. Ruth and the new York club have conclusively proved that it is not necessary for Babe to be hitting his daily home run for the Yankees to be in the race.

Ruth Stares Comeback

He has also staged the comeback that a great many of the experts doubted, although he has not been doing busting to an alarming extent. Prior to going south and during the spring training season Ruth worked as hard as any rookie striving to win a place as a regular.

When the season opened he was in the best condition of his baseball career. However, physical condition is not everything in baseball, the batting eye must also be in shape. During the games in the south the old time Ruth swing lacked the rhythm that was once a thing of beauty, even when the big fellow swung three in vain and wended his way to the bench for the customary drink of water. The once perfect coordination appeared lacking.

Hitting Has Been Timely

Since the opening of the season Ruth has been constantly improving. Hits, Jude, Wild pitch, Boardman, Passed ball, Lupe. Time 2 hrs. Empire, Kelva.

Most Golf Failures Are Chiefly Mental

Willie Kamm's Batting Ability Is Only Doubtful Feature of His Play

By NEA Service.

Chicago, June 8.—When a ball player is considered worth the outlay of $100,000 it is only natural that he should be subjected to the critical eye of every baseball expert.

That is the period that Willie Kamm of the Chicago White Sox is now going through.

Will Kamm field up to the major league standard?

That question has already been settled in the minds of every one connected with the game. Kamm is a wonderful fielder. He can go equally far to his right or left, comes in fast on bunts and has a great arm.

Will Kamm develop into a 300 hitter in the majors.

On this question there is much difference of opinion among the leading critics, major league managers, star pitchers and big league players in general.

"Kamm has a habit that is not characteristic of the great batsmen, he hits up on a ball. That is, as Kamm completes his swing, as the ball meets the bat, there is a lifting motion. He does not follow through on a direct line as do the great hitters of the game."

Baseball experts contend that this lifting motion, as the ball meets the bat, makes for fly ball hitting rather than line drives. In other words Kamm hits slightly under the ball rather than getting direct contact.

It is an easy matter to notice this fault if one carefully studies Kamm's style at the plate. Possibly Kamm will never be a great batsman, yet it would occasion no great surprise if Kamm finished among the select 300. A player, however, who can field like Kamm is a most valuable man if he only hits around 270.

INDIAN CHIEF TO SEE FIGHT

Blackfoot Indian Chief Going To Shelby For Big Bout

Shelby, Mont., June 8.—Sixty miles west of here, at Browning, Mont., is the U. S. Agency for the Blackfoot Indian reservation. The reservation extends back into Glacier National Park but the headquarters are at Browning. On this reservation reside 3,000 Blackfeet, the remainder of a tribe that once roamed the Montana, Wyoming and Utah prairies.

Presiding over the crowd is Mountain Chief, eighty-six year old grizzled buck who despite his many years under the guidance and care of Uncle Sam, can't speak a word of English.
In his way Mountain Chief was some battler, although he boasts proudly that he never lifted his rifle against a white man.

Through the aid of an interpreter, Louis Monroe, he was presented with a ringside ticket for the Dempsey-Gibbons championship fight here July 4, by Eddie Kani, manager of Glendon. Mountain Chief granted his thanks. And when the meaning of the ticket was relayed to him by the interpreter, Mountain Chief, who had decked himself out in all his war-time finery for the visitors, went into a war dance. He whipped out a murderous looking knife, which has touched many a scalp, and sounded his battle cry.

Three of his squaws came running from his cabin, thinking that the old boy was going out once more after the Crows, and Crees, his ancient enemies.

From Mountain Chief's feathered headgear dropped a broken feather. Asked the reason through an interpreter he replied that a Cree rifle bullet had done that damage in battle, but that his band annihilated 150 of the enemy in the encounter following.

The chief has never seen a white man's fight but he's going to be here July 4 to pass judgment on Champion Jack Dempsey and his challenger.

Do You Know Baseball

Questions
ONE—Base runner steals third with that base occupied. Is the runner on third forced to try for the plate, with the bag?

TWO—With two base runners standing on the same bag, what is the proper way for the fielder to retire one of them?

THREE—Why are base runners given the right to advance on a foul fly ball that is caught?

FOUR—Did the infield fly rule ever apply with only first base occupied and less than two out?

FIVE—If pitcher after coming to his pitching position, is confused as to his signal, can he drop his hands and ask for a new signal or must he retain his pitching position?

Answers
ONE—The base-runner on third is not forced to dash for the plate. A base runner can only be forced to advance in order to make room for the batsman. The base belongs to the runner originally on third. If the runner who stole third with the base occupied can get back to second before being caught out, he has that right.

TWO—Fielder with the ball should touch the runner who has advanced to a certain base, when he finds two men on said base. The base always belongs to the original occupant, who is immune from being retired while on the bag.

THREE—A foul fly that is caught retires a batsman. The ball is in play, hence a base runner should have the right to advance if possible.

FOUR—No, because there is no chance for a double play with only first occupied if the batsman runs out his hit as he should.

FIVE—It is a balk if he drops his hands. He must retain his pitching position, or back off the rubber if he desires to drop his hands.

"WING" JOINS JIMTOWN CLUB

Jamestown, N. D., June 8.—The "Jinkotans" of the North Dakota State League don't intend to stay near the bottom. Manager Whitling has strengthened the team by the addition of Wingfield, former Fargo and Bismarck player, who is well known in North Dakota, and by Raymond Clark, last season with the Topeka Western Association club. Clark, a graduate of Westminster college, was one of the stars among the college catchers and showed well in organized ball.

It was denied here that "Buck" Taylor, former Bismarck player had joined Minot.

Joe Bush Finds Red Sox Tough Team To Defeat

Once upon a time Joe Bush was the star pitcher of the Boston Red Sox. That was after Joe had been sold to that team by Philadelphia, with which he had occupied a similar role.

A star in Boston seldom stays very long in the City of Culture. He is sold to New York. It was so in the case of Joe Bush.

Last season, in his first year as a Yankee, Bush had a big season, losing only seven games, yet strangely enough four of the seven defeats were inflicted by the former teammates, the tattered Bostonians.

It looks as if the jinx is to continue this year. In his first start against Boston, Bush won after a tough battle. In his second start he was beaten, 5 to 3, despite the fact that he was allowed only eight hits and struck out eight batters.

It also was the irony of fate that George Murray, traded to Boston for Pennock, pitched the victory over Bush.

Errors Costly To Jamestown Nine

Jamestown, N. D., June 8.—Eight errors by the local team proved costly yesterday when Minot took advantage of them and coupled them up with 13 hits to core 13 runs and defeat the Jintown nine.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT MART LACKS SUPPORT

Chicago, June 8.—General selling of wheat found the market without much support today during the early dealings. Lessened optimism as to likelihood of a reparations agreement between France and Germany had a bearish effect and so, too, did the report of clear, warm weather in Oklahoma. Harvesting will be started on Monday.

Evening up, however, to prepare for the government report due after the close helped somewhat to steady the market. Opening prices which ranged from 1/4 to 3/4 cents lower with July 1.09 1/2 to 1.10 1/2 and September 1.09 to 1.09 1/2 were followed by a moderate further setback and then something of a rally.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, June 8.—Hog receipts 38,000. Uneven 10 to 25 cents lower. Top $7.05.

Cattle receipts 3,000. Killing quality generally plain. All killing class fully steady. Yearlings and lightweights beef steers offered liberally. Bulk steers $8.75 to $9.75. Out-siders paid $10.00 for choice veners.

Sheep receipts 7,000. Around steady. Bulk good and choice native springers $15.00 to $15.25. Choice 180 pound ewes on shipping accounts $3.40.

POLES DESTROY WARSAW CATHEDRAL TO SHOW THEIR SCORN OF RUSSIA

CATHEDRAL OF ALEXANDER NEVSKI IN WARSAW WHICH IS BEING DESTROYED BY THE POLES AS A SYMBOL OF THE DISAPPEARANCE OF OLD RUSSIAN DOMINATION. INSET: MARSHAL PILSUDSKI, WHO WITH OTHER NATIONAL LEADERS, HELPED ESTABLISH THE POLISH NATIONAL GOVERNMENT.

By NEA Service
Warsaw, June 8.—All Poland is celebrating the beginning of the destruction of Warsaw's most beautiful building.
For the razing of the magnificent Cathedral of Alexander Nevski marks the disappearance of the last symbol of Russian domination. The beauty of Warsaw will suffer, for the edifice stood in the exact center of the city facing the Saxon Gardens. To the foreigners' eye it was the most noteworthy structure in Warsaw. But to the Poles it was the most disastrous. Millions were expended in its erection in 1894. Its founders intended it to become the great center of Russian civic and religious culture.
But it stood in a land where 76 per cent of the population were Roman Catholic Poles and Mazurs, 15 per cent Jews; 6 per cent Protestant Germans and only 3 per cent adherents of Holy Russia.
Its gilded copper domes have overshadowed the nearby palace of the Saxon-Polish kings, and the humbler Catholic Cathedral of St. John. But they never overcame the Poles who finally succeeded in breaking away from Czaristic domination.
When the government under such leadership as Marshal Pilsudski and others finally became strong enough it decreed that the church must go. It was Poland's answer to Russia's war on religion; it was Poland's break through the last bonds that tied her to Russia.
On May 3, the Polish national holiday, the destruction of the cathedral began. It will continue, with pomp and celebration, until the whole structure is down.

HANK GOWDY GOES TO GIANTS

Boston, June 8.—Jess Barnes, pitcher, and Earl Smith, catcher of the New York Giants, will come to the Boston National League club in exchange for John Watson, pitcher, and Hank Gowdy, veteran catcher, the Boston club announced. No cash is involved in the deal, it was said.

Boston, June 8.—A telegram received here from Judge Emil Fiedler, part owner of the Boston National League club, who is now in Chicago, announced that Hank Gowdy of the Boston club had been traded for Earl Smith, one of the New York Giants' catching string. The message said that "there might be further developments."
Gowdy, who was the batting hero of the 1914 world series, when the Braves took four straight from the Athletics, is a veteran, and has been acting as a second string catcher this season.

SHANLEY CLAN LANDS HARD IN TWO INNINGS

Pitching Battle Broken Up At Park When Heavy Artillery Opens

BOARDMAN IN BOX

Charley Strikes Out 13 "Twins" Pitching Remarkable Ball

Two southpaws, "Lefty" Keegan of New Rockford-Carrington and Charley Boardman of the Capital City crew, staged a pretty pitching battle at the local park last evening for six innings. In the six innings hits were few and the only runs made were by the "Twins" which they shouldn't have had.

In the seventh the Shanley clan evidently decided that Keegan had been going long enough and they started to hit. They made two runs in the seventh and six more in the eighth frame, winning the first game from the "Twins" by a score of 8 to 3.

It was a good game and hard fought all the way through until Bismarck's heavy artillery went into action.

Charley Boardman, who started the season at Jamestown like he intended to be the leading pitcher of the league, kept up his good work. He pitched great ball throughout, struck out 13 men, passed but three, and only one solid blow was registered on him, the other three credited to the "Twins" being hits by the "Twins" under. In addition Boardman joined in the heavy hitting, his blows including a three bagger with one on.

New Rockford Scores First

New Rockford scored first blood in the fourth. Kennedy got to first when Noll dropped Boardman's throw and stole second. Dougan took Lauber's intended sacrifice. Rampe fled out to right. Jude walked. Sebold put one past Kennedy. Boardman threw to second and Kennedy couldn't see the ball against the sun and Jude scored. Sebold came home on a wild pitch.

In the seventh one Boardman put one too far toward second for Rampe to handle and was safe at first. Noll got a three bagger in left, scoring Boardman. Nord fanned. Noll scored a Jennings was going out. Ennis to Meyers.

In the next inning Bismarck batted round. Randall, the first man up, tried to catch Shanley with a bunt. Shanley left for two bases, putting Shanley on third. Bernier lined one to right, and Shanley and Dougan scored. Boardman hit a long one to right-center, scoring Bernier. Noll cracked out a two-ply hit. Boardman scoring. Nord walked. Jennings fanned. Condon produced a hit, scoring Noll and Nord. Randall fled to right.

In spite of the fact that they haven't won many games the "Twins" looked good in the field last night. "Lefty" Keegan proved a crafty pitcher, and Bismarck batters had a hard time connecting for six innings. He fanned nine.

See New Faces

The local fans saw some new faces in the Bismarck line-up in action for the first time this season. Don Dougan caught the kind of a game expected of him, sharing a couple of hard fouls in addition to taking everything. Boardman came right and stole two bases with ease in addition to cracking out two hit. Al Bernier, pitcher and outfielder, dropped a fly but also delivered a hit in the pitch.

Because an outfielder has not arrived to fill Reider's shoes Jennings, pitcher, was in left and Bernier in center with Noll on first.

Boardman probably will be on first today and tomorrow and will pitch again Sunday.

RUTH PLAYING BETTER THAN EVER

Babe's Fine All-round Work More Valuable Than Mere Home Runs

By Billy Evans.

"If Babe Ruth doesn't hit his quota of home runs in 1923 the Yankees are going to be decidedly up against it."

That was the belief expressed by many of the baseball experts prior to the opening of the season. To a majority, the hope of the Yankees depended almost entirely on Ruth's slugging.

Can Ruth come back?

That proved a great-a-topic-for discussion. Would Bambino after six months of intensive training regain the batting eye that made him the most feared batsman in all the history of the game?

Ruth, during the first six weeks of play, has upset the preseason dope in a great many ways. He has given the lie to several well-defined beliefs. Ruth and the New York club have conclusively proved that it is not necessary for Babe to be hitting his daily home run for the Yankees to be up in the race.

Ruth Stages Comeback

He has also staged the comeback that a great many of the experts doubted, although he has not been fence busting to an alarming extent. Prior to going south and during the spring training season Ruth worked as hard as any rookie striving to win a place as a regular. When the season opened he was in the best condition of his baseball career. However, physical condition is not everything in baseball, the batting eye must also be in shape.

During the games in the south the old time Ruth swing lacked the rhythm that was once a thing of beauty, even when the big fellow swung three in vain and wended his way to the bench for the customary drink of water. The once perfect coordination appeared lacking.

Hitting Has Been Timely

Since the opening of the season Ruth has been constantly improving. Jude, Wild pitch. Boardman Passed ball. Lupe. Time 2 hrs. Umpire, Kelva.

Most Golf Failures Are Chiefly Mental

Willie Kamm's Batting Ability Is Only Doubtful Feature of His Play

By NEA Service.

Chicago, June 8.—When a ball player is considered worth the outlay of $100,000 it is only natural that he should be subjected to the critical eye of every baseball expert.

That is, the period that Willie Kamm of the Chicago White Sox is now going through.

Will Kamm field up to the major league standard?

That question has already been settled in the minds of every one connected with the game. Kamm is a wonderful fielder. He can go equally far to his right or left, comes in fast on bunts and has a great arm.

Will Kamm develop into a .300 hitter in the majors.

On this question there is much difference of opinion among the leading critics, major league man-on the ball, but are so afraid that you won't get it in the air for enough carry to clear the obstacle that you involuntarily drop the right shoulder, endeavoring to get under the ball, and only succeed in hitting back of the ball, catching it on the upstroke and tipping it into trouble.

Again, you hurry the stroke or forget to pivot, or do something else contrary to what you do on your strokes where no trouble looms. What you should try to do is to relax even more where the trouble looms than you do normally.

Try to make the whole stroke as smooth as possible and if you succeed in making yourself, and clear such obstacle a few times, you will thereafter laugh at your own previous fears.

INDIAN CHIEF TO SEE FIGHT

Blackfoot Indian Chief Going To Shelby For Big Bout

Shelby, Mont., June 8.—Sixty miles west of here, at Browning, Mont., is the U. S. Agency for the Blackfoot Indian reservation. The reservation extends back into Glacier National Park but the headquarters are at Browning. On this reservation reside 3,000 Blackfoot, the remainder of a tribe that once roamed the Montana, Wyoming and Utah prairies.

Presiding over the crowd is Mountain Chief, eighty-six year-old grizzled buck who despite his many years under the guidance and care of Uncle Sam, can't speak a word of English.

In his way Mountain Chief was some battler, although he boasts proudly that he never lifted his rifle against a white man.

Through the aid of an interpreter, Louis Monroe, he was presented with a ringside ticket for the Dempsey-Gibbons championship fight here July 4, by Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons. Mountain Chief grunted his thanks. And when the meaning of the ticket was relayed to him by the interpreter, Mountain Chief, who had decked himself out in all his war paint, he whipped out a murderous looking knife, which has touched many a scalp, and sounded his battle cry.

Three of his squaws came running from his cabin, thinking that the old boy was going out once more for the Crows, and Crees, his ancient enemies.

From Mountain Chief's feathered headgear dropped a broken feather. Asked the reason through an interpreter he replied that a Cree rifle bullet had done that damage in battle, but that his hand annihilated 150 of the enemy in the encounter following.

The chief has never seen a white man's fight but he's going to be here July 4 to pass judgment on Champion Jack Dempsey and his challenger.

NATIONALS ON WESTERN TRIP IN DIFFICULTY

Western Clubs Continue Their Warm Reception During Present Invasion

Chicago, June 8.—The temperature of the warm reception they have been extending to the western visitors was maintained yesterday by the western clubs of the National League.

The Cubs of Chicago made it two straight out of three from the New York Giants, 9 to 7, and sent the world's champions on to Pittsburgh. The Pirates were kept from roughing the Brooklyn Robins again by rain.

St. Louis and Cincinnati also won, the former again from Philadelphia, 1 to 0, and the latter made it a clean sweep with Boston, 3 to 1.

If the Cubs can hold up they will add a lot of interest to the National League race. The Cubs would prosper at the expense of Boston, which starts a series there today after its disastrous Cincinnati attempt.

Just now the National league is quite interesting. The Cubs have demonstrated that New York can be beaten, five clubs, New York, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and St. Louis have played better than 50-50 ball since the season started all having won more than half their games. Chicago has lost only two less than it has won. Boston and Philadelphia are easy markets of the circuit.

The Chicago White Sox were unable to continue their rampage against the New York Yankees because it rained in the fourth inning when the score was 0 to 0. Philadelphia gained half a game on the Yanks by again trouncing St. Louis 8 to 5. Cleveland pulled in its bid for second place by losing to Boston, 7 to 1. Washington made it two straight from Detroit, 16 to 4.

"Irish" Meusel of the Giants, by cracking out a brace of successive homers off Grover Alexander, accomplished a feat which no other player has ever been able to do during Alexander's long career in the National League.

Do You Know Baseball

Questions

ONE—Base runner steals third man's bag occupied. Is the runner on third forced to try for the plate, with both runners standing on the bag?

TWO—With two base runners standing on the same bag, what is the proper way for the fielder to retire one of them?

THREE—Why are base runners given the right to advance on a foul fly ball that is caught?

FOUR—Did the infield fly rule ever apply with only first base occupied and less than two out?

FIVE—If pitcher after coming to his pitching position, is confused as to his signal, can he drop his hands and ask for a new signal or must he retain his pitching position?

Answers

ONE—The base-runner on third is not forced to dash for the plate. A base runner can only be forced to advance in order to make room for the batsman. The base belongs to the runner originally on third. If the runner who stole third with the base occupied can get back to second before being touched out, he has that right.

TWO—Fielder with the ball should touch the runner who has advanced to a certain base, when he finds two men on said base. The base always belongs to the original occupant, who is immune from being retired while on the base.

THREE—A foul fly that is caught retires a batsman. The ball is in play, hence a base runner should play the right to advance if possible.

FOUR—No, because there is no chance for a double play with only first occupied if the batsman runs out his hit as he should.

FIVE—It is a balk if he drops his hands. He must retain his pitching position, or back off the rubber if he desires to drop his hands.

Huggins Fails To Include Mays In List Of Regulars

New York, June 8.—Carl Mays, star of the New York Yankee pitching staff in 1921, leader of the American League twirlers that year, is no longer a regular.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees has definitely announced that his big four for the present will consist of Shawkey, Bush, Hoyt and Jones with Pennock as next choice should any of the first named four falter.

The only famous subway artist has been relegated to the ranks of the substitutes. No doubt his main duty this year will be to act as relief pitcher. Mays with his unusual style of delivery should be a very valuable man, such a role for a few innings.

The decline of Mays is due to the loss of his fast ball. This was his big stock in trade. It dipped much after the manner of a spitball. With the passing of his fast ball Mays lost his big threat and most of his effectiveness.

"WING" JOINS JIMTOWN CLUB

Jamestown, N. D., June 8.—The "Jimtown" of the North Dakota State League don't intend to stay near the bottom. Manager Whiting has strengthened the team by the addition of Wingfield, former Fargo and Bismarck player, who is well known in North Dakota, and by Raymond Clark, last season with the Tepeka Western Association club. Clark, a graduate of Westminster college, was one of the stars among the college catchers and showed well in organized ball.

It was denied here that "Buck" Taylor, former Bismarck player had joined Minot.

Joe Bush Finds Red Sox Tough Team To Defeat

Once upon a time Joe Bush was the star pitcher of the Boston Red Sox. That was after Joe had been sold to that team by Philadelphia, with which he had occupied a similar role.

A star in Boston seldom stays very long in the City of Culture. He is sold to New York. It was so in the case of Joe Bush.

Last season, in his first year as a Yankee, Bush had a big season, losing only seven games, yet strangely enough four of the seven defeats were inflicted by his former teammates, the tail-end Bostonians.

It looks as if the jinx is to continue this year. In his first start against Boston, Bush was after a tough battle. In his second start he was beaten, 5 to 3, despite the fact that he was allowed only eight hits and struck out eight batters.

It also was the irony of fate that George Murray, traded to Boston for Pennock, pitched the victory over Bush.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT MART LACKS SUPPORT

Chicago, June 8.—General selling of wheat found the market without much support today during the early dealings. Lessened optimism as to likelihood of a reparations agreement between France and Germany had a bearish effect and so, too, did the report of clear, warm weather in Oklahoma. Harvesting will be started on Monday.

Evening up, however, to prepare for the government report due after the close helped somewhat to steady the market. Opening prices which ranged from 1/4 to 1/2 cents lower with July $1.09 1/2 to $1.10 1/2 and September $1.09 to $1.09 1/2 were followed by a moderate further setback and then something of a rally.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

The millennium isn't here yet, but it is rapidly approaching. Authors who used to scoff at the manner in which their stories were handled by motion picture producers, are changing their tune—at least enough of them are to warrant the foregoing statement regarding the millennium.

"Brothers Under the Skin" which comes to the Capitol theatre for two days beginning Monday was directed by F. Mason Hopper and has a brilliant cast including Helga Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Norman Kerry, Claire Windsor and Mae Busch. The story was adapted to the screen by Grant Carpenter. Mr. Kyne personally wrote the sub-titles.

Rotary Plow Expected to Revolutionize Farm

INSPECTING THE "WONDER PLOW"

By NEA Service

Elmhurst, Ill., June 6.—Hamshaw's rotary plow, a new invention in the opinion of farmers, has done the "impossible."

Recent tests here show that no matter how tough the soil, the new plow leaves the entire seedbed pulverized so finely that all the soil will pass through a sieve with one-fourth inch meshes!

Fletcher R. Hamshaw conceived the device which, experiments have conclusively proven, eliminates 90 per cent of the farmer's work in plowing.

The purpose of the machine is not only to plow the soil, but to "order" it. That is, to prepare it for the immediate reception of seeds. The accompanying photo shows a close-up view of the drum. This drum does the trick. It is studded with a series of plow shears and tears into the soil.

Under ordinary conditions farmers found that only about 29 per cent of the soil was pulverized finely enough after plowing to permit seeding, thus necessitating eight to ten different operations.

With the new machine, it is claimed, 96 per cent of the soil is pulverized in the first operation. One of the features of Hamshaw's invention is that all surface vegetation is chopped up and mixed thoroughly with the seedbed 13 inches deep.
